

So they read in the book in the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading.

NEHEMIAH 8:8

Laura Rose Pearl (5 years old) writes the letters of her name in dirt.

The alphabet was displayed on a banner across the top of a blackboard at school, but I couldn't keep the letters straight. They always seemed to be turning upside down, reversing into mirror images or appearing in a different place.

One thing I could do was make highly detailed models of things from muddy clay I dug out of a small pit in the backyard. One day, I formed a D, an F and an O from ropes of clay and left them to dry on the ground. The next day, the D, F and O on the banner at school held still and stayed in their correct places. When I went home to check, I discovered that I had made only one mistake: my clay F was backward. That was easy to fix by flipping it over.

I had memorized the shapes of a few more letters that day, so I proceeded to make them out of clay. I kept adding a couple of letters each day until I had all twenty-six, arranged in the order they appeared on the chart. Once I had done this, I knew the forms of all the capital letters and their correct sequence.”

Excerpt from: The Gift of Dyslexia, page 66

A young child, identified as Jeremiah James Easling, is the central focus of the image. He is wearing a bright red fire helmet with a yellow stripe and a silver emblem on top. He is smiling broadly, showing his teeth. He is holding a black hose with both hands, and a stream of water is spraying from the nozzle of the hose. The background is a blurred outdoor setting with green grass and some rocks.

quit you like men.
be strong.

1 CORINTHIANS 16:13

Jeremiah James Easling (2 years old) son of James and Shoshanna Easling.
